GERONIMO

(Tucson Star)

It has been suggested by Harry Arizona Drachman that the basement of the "Hotel Geronimo" be set aside as a "chamber of horrors" dedicated to the atrocities of the renegade Indian murderer. He would have made wax figures which would show the mutilations which Geronimo committed on the bodies of his victims—eyes gouged out, ears chopped off, abdomens slit, limbs broken in a dozen places; representations of the bodies of babes whose brains had been dashed out against a boulder, and others showing to the curious tourist the niceties of savagery in which Geronimo excelled.

The idea of the name, we understand, is not so much to honor Geronimo, but the commercial possibilities which it holds. Easterners seeing the "Hotel Geronimo" advertised would immediately think of the Apache campaigns of the '70's and '80's. The name would, it is argued, have a romantic interest, the capitalization and commercialism of which would induce many tourists to come to Tucson. The suggestion that the basement be dedicated to a chamber of horrors would be only carrying out the idea. It might add interest to the general scheme to place somewhere in the hotel lobby, a bronze tablet giving the names of the victims of Geronimo. However, this might clash with the commercial appeal of the name by detracting from the impressiveness of the name and fame of Geronimo.

It is not expected, presumably, that the remaining pioneers and Indian fighters will be conspicuous in the agitation in favor of the name Geronimo, or that they would find pleasure in strolling through the proposed "chamber of horrors." It has been but a scant 35 years since Geronimo was a name synonymous in Tucson, with the most fiendish barbarity and cunning treachery, and there are in Arizona today, many who carry in their heart the scars of Geronimo's hate.

If it is proposed to do honor in some measure to a noble redman "more sinned against than sinning," if it is proposed to concede something to the belief current in the east at the time that Geronimo fought for his home and fireside, we would urge that the promoters of the name scheme be tolerant, yet awhile, of the belief of the living old timers that Geronimo's atrocities were unjustified, that it was wrong to murder pioneer Arizona settlers and their wives and children. Be tolerant of the feelings of the old timers. Then, after they are all gone, the name of the hotel can be changed to Geronimo. Other hotels in the city, catching the petty commercial spirit, might follow suit, and choose for names The Apache Kid, Chihuahua, Nachis, Eskimzin, Victorio, Del-shay, Eskimoyouah, and Chatto, the murderer of the McComas family.

The Indian whose name it is proposed to perpetuate in a grand hotel because of his facility as a cut-throat, was not an Apache chief. He was not an Apache, nor was he a chief, according to Col. Jas. H. McClintock, the Arizona historian, but was one of the Janos Indian tribe of Chihuahua, Mexico, of which he was a sub-chief. It was his "gift of gab," it is related, that put him into the position which he maintained by the gift of malevolent cunning and criminal cleverness. The chief of the Janos, Juh, was afflicted with an impediment of speech, so he used Geronimo as his spokesman. At a conference between General Crook and a band of Janos, Crook was led to believe that Geronimo was the chief because he did all of the talking, and therefore the flattered Geronimo posed as chief of the Apaches, though he was first associated with the Chiricahuas. Arizona was not Geronimo's "native heath." When peace—transitory peace—was made with the Chiricahuas and the latter put on a reservation, Cochise, the chief of the Chiricahuas, sent word to the Janos that rations were to be had for the asking, of the federal government. Juh came with his Janos and his amanuensis, Geronimo. It was indeed a "red-lettered day" for Arizona when he came. While he was in prison at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, Geronimo was deposed from his usurped position as chief and the title was given to Asa Duke, a son of Juh.

These things we have set down as being of interest at the present time and as pertinent to the pretty suggestion that the modern hotel which it is intended shall be the symbol of the hospitality of the New Tucson, shall bear the name of the cut-throat renegade whose name was anathema to those who laid the foundations of the state.

Faltin may be insane but he had a proper appreciation of the fitness of things when he escaped from the asylum just as Hunt was taking the count of nine, says the Tucson Star.

A man is always anxious to help another—if he sees a chance to help himself.

The Cochise county attorney's plan of entering a formal complaint, securing a warrant of arrest, and bringing Booze into court, is not a bad one. If convicted and later executed, the official will have followed the mandate of the statutes that no punishment shall be inflicted except by due process of law. Hence every prisoner is entitled to have a day in court.—Mesa Tribune.

CAMPBELL-HUNT VOTE INSPECTION FINISHED

PHOENIX, Jan. 9.—The inspection of the ballots in the Hunt-Campbell contest for the governorship was concluded last night and the results have been tabulated by the Republican state committee officials, showing the votes by counties for each of the candidates as returned by the election officials, the results as determined by the inspection boards and the number of disputed ballots. The inspectors for Governor Hunt have not yet submitted their table but claim a majority for Hunt is made as shown by the discovery of clerical errors by election boards. A gain of 135 votes for Hunt is claimed. The table submitted by the Republican committee gives Campbell a plurality of 157 instead of 20, as was shown by the official count. Both figures are exclusive of the disputed ballots.

The supreme court it was announced today would hand down a decision tomorrow morning on the motion of Senator Ives, counsel for Governor Hunt, to strike from the complaint of Campbell in his application for a writ of mandamus, all reference to events leading up to the issuance of the certificate of election of the latter. In case the motion is allowed arguments will proceed on the amended complaint.

LEAVE FOR PHOENIX TO ATTEND SESSION

Senator Fred Sutter and Representative Tom Hughes and Tom Foster have gone to Phoenix to be on hand at the opening of the session of the legislature which convenes on Monday next. The balance of the Cochise County representatives are already in Phoenix. Mrs. McKay left early last week while the Douglas members including M. E. Jacks, Charles Francis, Dave O'Neill and William Cook left during the week. Just what the members intend to do at the organization of that body remains to be seen. It is the opinion of several of them that they should adjourn until the governorship question has been settled while others are inclined to give their support to the Hunt faction.

There promises to be a very lively time at the opening of the session at any rate, the republicans, conservative democrats and the radicals all promise to have a state that they wish to put through and what the outcome will be only time will tell.

RAILROAD MEN OF TOMBSTONE GIVEN LARGE BONUS

Employees of the local division of the El Paso & Southwestern railroad net under contract were surprised to receive Saturday on the regular semi-monthly arrival of the pay car when they received a substantial bonus from the company.

All employees of this kind who had been working for the railroad a year or longer received a bonus of ten percent of their year's wages. Employees who had been at work less than a year but more than six months were given a bonus of five per cent. The company made its explanation on printed cards dated December 22 in New York which read as follows: "In view of the existing abnormal conditions which have increased many personal and household expenditures and in recognition of the loyalty and efficiency with which you have responded to the pressure attending a year of unusual prosperity and business activity, a special appropriation has been made, from which we have pleasure in handing you the enclosed check."

SAN SIMON POTATOES SOON TO BE FAMOUS

SAN SIMON, Jan. 8.—W. T. McCoskey, in company with Editor Bush of Lordsburg, N. M., motored over today to attend the meeting of the Potato Growers' Association. Mr. McCoskey's visit was in response to an invitation by Ingram T. Sparks, traveling traffic agent for the Southern Pacific, and its object was to pave the way for financing the growing of potatoes here on a much larger scale.

Mr. McCoskey proposed to furnish seed and to aid financially reputable farmers who would agree to grow potatoes. A committee was appointed to get acreage contracts signed up. The indications are that farmers will sign up an acreage which will result in the growing of hundreds of cars the coming season.

Peter Jensen, the leading grower here, has ordered 20,000 pounds of seed potatoes and will plant forty acres. He predicts that if the coming organized effort proves a success, land values will be revolutionized and the San Simon valley will enter a period of great prosperity.

DOES THIS CONSTITUTE MISUSE OF U. S. MAIL?

AJO, Jan. 7.—An interesting legal question has arisen here as the aftermath of the strike of New Cornelia employees. It is: Does the solicitation of funds through the United States mails, after a strike has ended, constitute fraudulent use of the mails? It is said that despite the fact that the large majority of employees who went on a strike have returned to work, appeals are still being sent out through the mails begging money to support the strike.

RAILROAD CHARGED WITH VIOLATING THE LAW

PHOENIX, Jan. 8.—United States Attorney T. A. Flynn filed a complaint with the clerk of the United States court this morning against the Santa Fe railroad company charging it with the violation of the sixteen hour law for its workmen.

The particular act charged was alleged to have been committed on July 21 and 22 last year when one Cameron is alleged to have been on duty from 11 o'clock on the morning of the 21st, to 10:30 on the morning of the 22nd with only a lay off of a little over four hours.

ARIZONA TO RECEIVE HARVARD SCHOLARSHIP

PHOENIX, Jan. 7.—Arizona will receive a Harvard scholarship. Arizona is one of the lucky states out of eleven that receive a scholarship to Harvard.

Instructor D. Jantzen read a copy of the letter to the students of the High school yesterday. Three hundred dollars will be given to the student who passes the entrance examination which will be held here and at Cambridge.

The scholarship will be given for one year in the noted American college.

PICKETT TO TAKE ARIZONA VOTE TO CAPITOL

PHOENIX, Jan. 8.—Two hours before the legislature met here today three good democrats assembled in the supreme court room and cast the vote of Arizona for president. This is ordained by law. In all days Monday, the votes will be cast and prepared for their journey to the national capital.

In spite of other uncertainties in connection with the Arizona election there seems to be little doubt that the votes of Harry E. Pickett of Douglas, Homer R. Wood of Prescott and Lamar Cobb of Phoenix will be cast for Woodrow Wilson.

The question of which elector will journey to Washington with the official vote, will be decided today. Mr. Pickett disclaims any intention of creating a further break in the democratic party by demanding the right and honor of toting the ballots. Mr. Wood, it is thought, will be kept busy for some few days, with the gubernatorial contest, in which he is an inspector. Mr. Cobb's duties as state engineer, will possibly keep him in the state. Mr. Pickett, who is a lawyer, and therefore by inference, a man of both means and leisure, together with a taste for traveling, seems the best one yet. He says that Mr. Wilson need feel no anxiety this year about the ballots arriving in Washington at or prior to the prescribed time.

FALTIN RECAPTURED MID MORE MYSTERY

PHOENIX, Jan. 7.—William Faltin, the murderer, who was saved from the gallows a few minutes before the trap was to have been sprung, by the board of pardons and paroles, who shifted the case to the superior court of Pinal county, where a jury later found the man insane, was captured at Buckeye at noon today and returned to the asylum.

Faltin escaped last Sunday morning and a search has been maintained for him ever since, but the manner of his taking seems to be shrouded in mystery. She sheriff's office reported at 2 o'clock that it was rumored that Faltin had been captured, but did not know by whom.

Constable Jones telephoned from Buckeye a few minutes later that he had heard of the capture of Faltin, but did not know of the circumstances. The police reported that their information was to the effect that Constable Jones of Buckeye had made the arrest.

Dr. Kingsley of the insane asylum said that Faltin had been hiding out near Buckeye; that he came into town to get something to eat and was followed back by a constable. Dr. Kingsley said that Faltin was the worse for wear when brought in, close to exhaustion and that he was trying to get out the state into California.

LEVY BROTHERS FREED WHEN COLO. REFUSES EXTRADITION

DENVER, Colo., Jan. 7.—Judge Robert E. Lewis in federal court today denied the petition of the federal district attorney for an order for the removal to the jurisdiction of the federal district court of Arizona of Sam and Max Levy indicted there recently for misuse of the mails.

The order was asked on the basis of Commissioner W. F. Stone's action following a preliminary hearing in holding the Levys to answer the charge.

Denial of the order of removal, it was said at the federal district attorney's office here, ended any steps the government might take against the Levys for the alleged offense.

IRVIN LOCKE HAS PASSED TO BEYOND

TUCSON, Jan. 8.—The death of Irvin Locke, one of the best known newspaper men of the city, occurred yesterday evening at 6:30 o'clock at a local hospital. He has been seriously ill for the past two weeks, had gone to the hospital for treatment, but his strength failed rapidly and he did not rally. The remains were taken to the Parker Undertaking company and funeral arrangements will not be made until relatives in Philadelphia have been communicated with.
